We Begin With Some Models ...

All models are wrong.
Some are useful.

Trust Busters – Josephson

- If it's necessary, it's ethical.
- If it's legal, it's ethical; if it's permissible, it's proper.
- I'm just fighting fire with fire.
- We've always done it this way.
- Everyone else is doing it.
- It's a dumb rule.
- It's ethical as long as it doesn't hurt anyone.
- It's ethical if I don't gain personally.
- I've got it coming; they owe me.
- I'm doing it for my family.

Trust Busters – Josephson

- It's for a good cause.
- I don't care what it looks like; I can still be objective.
- This is a business, management, or political issue; it doesn't involve ethics.
- To get along, go along.
- "They" don't understand.
- I can't do anyone any good if I lose my job.
- I have no time for ethical subtleties.
- Ethics is a luxury I can't afford right now.
- It's not my job or problem.
- Sometimes you have to take shortcuts to survive.

Trust Builders – Arbel

- Trust your employees to do their jobs.
- Tell them you trust them.
- Redefine job descriptions with employees.
- Recognize their achievements publicly.
- Maintain a suggestion box.
- Create a bond with your employee.
- Increase employees' responsibility.
- Refrain from volunteering information about one worker to another. [Don't gossip!]
- Share credit with your employees.

Trust Rebuilders – Bridges

- Do what you say you will do. Don't make promises you can't or won't keep.
- Listen to people carefully and tell them what you think they are saying.
- Understand what matters to people and work hard to protect whatever is related to that.
- Share yourself honestly. Don't hide your shortcomings.
- Ask for feedback, and acknowledge unasked-for feedback on the subject of your own trustworthiness.

Trust Rebuilders – Bridges

- Don't try to push others to trust you further than you trust them.
- Try extending your trust of others a little further
- Don't confuse being trustworthy with "being a buddy."
- Don't be surprised if your trust-building project is viewed a bit suspiciously.
- If all of this is too complicated to remember and you want a single key to the building of trust, just remind yourself, "Tell the truth."

Athens

- Do you know your job? If not, are you striving to learn it? [Corollary: If you do know your job are you always and everywhere striving to improve your performance of your job?]
- Do you care about me and my development? [Do you have my best interests in mind?]
- Will you make the hard and correct decisions – irrespective of the effect on you, personally? [Do you have the courage to do what is right?]

Novak's Two-cents-worth

- It's all about people.
 - People get the job done – not managers or executives.
- Can people trust you?
 - Can they trust your technical competence?
 - Can they trust you to care about them?
 - Can they trust you to do what is legally, ethically, and morally right?
- If people can't trust you, you're toast. Go home.
